

GILL NETTERS WENT TO SPLIT

MARKET SHOT TO PIECES AND LARGE COD DUMPED UNDER KNIFE.

With the fresh fish market shot by low prices, many of the local gill netters had to take their large cod, barely 12 hours old, to the splitters for salting yesterday afternoon. Coming at the close of the week, when fish had been plentiful, codfish was quoted at Boston yesterday at two cents a pound and shipping many fish was out of the question. Two haddockers brought their fares from Boston yesterday afternoon to split, and this morning sch. Laura Goulart reported at the Gorton-Pew filleting plant with 60,000 pounds of fish.
